MARONDERA RURAL DISTRICT COLACIA

1. PREAMBLE

Background

Marondera Rural District Council is a rural local authority established in terms of the Rural District Councils Act, Chapter 29:13. It is made up of twenty-three (23) wards which include new resettlement areas (designated in the period 2000 to 2010) and large commercial farming areas (Wards 1 to 8 and Ward 23), small scale commercial farming areas (Ward 9), communal areas (Wards 10 to 20) and old resettlement areas (Wards 21 and 22). The district covers an area of 399,186 hectares and has a population of 136,173 (2022 national census).

Before the independence of Zimbabwe in 1980 the area currently covered by Marondera Rural District Council was organised under different local government systems. The areas covered by wards 1 to 8 and 21 to 23 fell under what was called Marandellas Road Council. Its main function was the maintenance of the road network in the white commercial farming area and hence it was popularly known as Marandellas Road Council.

The black African population on the other hand was under the control of African councils or district councils which were controlled by a white Native Commissioner. The main purpose for the establishment of the district councils was for the colonial government to control the African population. While the African population was required to pay various taxes to the government, the councils had very limited developmental functions.

At independence the new government took steps to abolish this racially segregated local government system. This culminated in the passage of the Rural District Councils Act in 1988 which saw the repealing of the Rural Councils Act and the District Councils Act under which the racially segregated rural and district councils were constituted. This development led to the creation of the contemporary Rural District Councils. For Marondera the white rural council and the African district council (called Rudhaka 2022 District Council) were amalgamated in 1992 to form the multi-racial Marondera Rural District Council. Rural District Councils were now mandated with more functions than their predecessor councils and thus they ceased to be mere road authorities.

The post-independence period saw a significant movement of the population as a result of government's resettlement programme. The early resettlement areas in the district are concentrated in wards 21 and 22. The period since 2000 has seen a massive movement of people into the former white commercial farming areas mostly in wards 1 to 8 and 23 under government's accelerated land reform programme. This placed more demands on council for the provision of infrastructure and social services to serve the resettled population. The communal population also continue to require expansion of these services and maintenance of infrastructure.

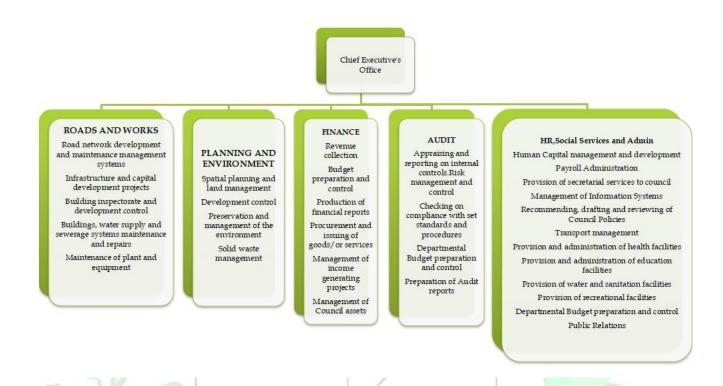

3. MANDATE

Council's mandate is to administer the area under its jurisdiction as outlined in the Rural District Councils Act Chapter 29:13.
